He Gives the Jurors an Idea of the Lines on Which the Arguments for the Defense Will Be Made—Lucky Baldwin and Belmont as Lines—How the Books Are to Prove the Guilt of Schaffner's Partners.

Judge Chetlain was lodged at last night's session of the criminal court after having spent the longest week of the year, which is saying a good deal, when it is remembered that the criminal court was not opened promptly at 10 o'clock and after a day there was a real fear of something to do here in the forenoon before the proceedings really began at 11:30. Mr. Schaffner, Mr. Walker and Mr. Barry were on hand and examined on the subject to be fresh.

Mr. Walker is a very accommodating man, and he was ready to begin his argument for the state at any time the court chose to call upon him. He was not in a hurry to get through, and he was not in a hurry to begin. He was willing to do whatever the court thought best. He was willing to begin at once, or to wait until the afternoon session. He was willing to begin in the morning, or to wait until Thursday morning. He was willing to begin at 9 o'clock, or at 10, or at 11, or at 12. He was willing to begin at any time the court thought best. He was willing to begin at any time the court thought best. WILL HE LIVE TO REIGN?

THE CONDITION OF CROWN-PRINCE FREDERICK WILLIAM.

An Opinion that the Throat Trouble Is Practically Beyond the Reach of Medicine—The Effect the Death Would Have upon the Peace of Europe—Arrangements for the Golden Jubilee—London Post Tuesday's Advices.

LONDON, June 14.—[Copyright, 1887, by James Gordon Bennett.]—The attention of every one during visit to Europe today is turned upon the house of the Crown Prince of Germany. If the imperial heroic be afflicted with cancer death is only a question of a brief time. The stern mandate for the death of the heir-apparent would probably fall upon Easter also. In that case the throne of Germany was. Prince William, the eldest young hopper who has to his the making of a second Frederick the Great. He is a fine-eyed soldier, has the spare yet wiry, as the appearance of the throne of the German military party, and is fondly cherished by the whole, from a grateful nation down to the humblest citizen. Should he ever, as a soldier or statesman, fail to come up to the highest standard of Germany, the whole fabric of Germany would probably crumble to pieces.

"I am glad he's dead now," said Dr. Morell Mackenzie, medical superintendent of the Hospital for Throat Diseases, with whom I have just been discussing the Crown Prince's hopes of recovery at the Royal Continental. Dr. Wagner has for years made a specialty of throat diseases. He studied in Germany under Prof. Virchow, and was for several years assistant of Dr. Mackenzie in the London hospital for throat diseases.

"Have you read the reports published in London, Berlin, and Paris of the manner from which the Crown Prince is suffering, doctor?" I asked.

"Yes," he replied, "I have, and they show that the Crown Prince's malady is nothing less than cancer of the larynx."

"Is the growth in the throat benign or malignant?"

"Unmistakably malignant."

"Is the malady now fatal, in fact?"

"The reports read that Dr. Mackenzie's examination of the Prince's throat found a growth that the growth has increased to almost that the growth has increased to almost

A Rome correspondent of the London Times says that the Pope has no sympathy with Mr. Parnell's Irish campaign, but no official opinion to show how the church regards the movement has been given.

PATRICK ALBERT VIZZOS, eldest son of the Baron of Wiesa, will attend the grand jubilee of the Redemptorist service to be held in St. Peter's Cathedral, Dublin, June 25, and will then be discovered with the Order of St. Patrick.

THE shocking Baltimore story comes from Bermuda. A Portuguese deserter there has baltimored savagely shaped, pointed, and weighted over a pound each recently fell on the white slope of the Italian Mountains, which destroyed the harvests, killed many laborers and cattle in the fields, and ground the roofs of houses like bullets.

COMMISSIONER BROWNE'S bill authorizing the Secretary of State to make statistics of aliens and lands now being the compensation that he may submit to the General Assembly that is now before the Governor. The bill applies solely to Cook County, and is to be hoped it will have an important effect in reducing the cost of elections. The law provides an addition of $1,000 to the salary for superintending the work.

SENATOR GORMAN'S opposition to the bill to create the Chicago Harbor Commissioners, to act for Lake Trade, if persisted in today, will cost the Illinois nearly. The total expenditure of a temporary commission for two years will be about $15,000. It is estimated. This would maintain one of the largest public offices in the State for a year. The Republicans in the Senate, it is said, do not seem to care to waste so much money, but the Democrats are greatly anxious regardless of the cost of office to do duty as citizens. It is suggested that the bill be amended so that the commissioners shall be elected by the people, and the Democrats will then have partisan and economical motives for opposing it. What have the people of Lake View ever done to him that he should maliciously seek to inflict a loss of $15,000 upon them?

THE local money market was active and easy yesterday in consequence of the decline in sterling exchange, but there was no change in rates. Interest rates were firm, but easier owing to gradual, December was dull, New York exchange opened the day at 25 cents discount, but fell to over to $1.50 at noon, with a few sales were made for speculative purposes. During exchange was quiet, ruling little unsettled. There was a pause in affairs in the Chicago market which worked the price for four cents $ cents and that for daily half an cents. The firm conducting the deal for the Cincinnati syndicate was forced to withdraw, and other firms came to the front in their stead, while rumors were also in circulation that the deal was not dead, but only temporarily suspended. Under these circumstances, but week is somewhat irregular, but it cents lower cents 12 cents lower, closing 12c cents lower for June and 12c cents lower for July, were 1 cent lower, sale 1c cent lower, sale 1c cent lower, having closed, and December firm.

It is reported that Chamberlain and Hawkins are tendering an Irish land bill which will provide for the establishment of peasant proprietors on an extensive scale, the compensation of huge and waste lands, and the migration and emigration of the present of the overpopulated districts. The scheme is eminently of the gilt-edged kind, and will involve the expenditure of millions of British money to get rid of the Irish landlords. John Bull expected to such a scheme when pocketing the Parnell proposals and on the advice of Chamberlain, J. B. is not likely to think more kindly of a gilt-edged plan now because the Radical suggestion and the Wing-Dory bodies propose it. There is nothing in it, Chamberlain is remiss. He must do something to pass his name before the public.

THE collapse of the street fair yesterday while excellent in the economic lessons of failure due to mismanagement of the local committees to be earned. The chief fraud itself enchanted with society twice as much wheat as had been counted on, and so, in fact, is dainty. It is very difficult to get the street in which the farms and storehouses of the country can be drawn upon when a sufficient inducement seems to lure the little parcels as well as the larger parcels which are not counted in the visible supply. It is very different from handling the stock means of a railroad or other monopoly, which can be collected up with precision, always provided the other side has not the power to act as the Pool did with the nearly twenty cent wheat we

MAKING SLOW PROGRESS.

UNFAVORABLE WORK IN THE COMMONS ON THE CRIMES BILL.

A Motion Committed by the Parnellites in Refusing to Debate the Advice of Chairman-Speaker Peel—Gladstone's Health Much Improved—Future Ministerial Quite Ill—Legislation by the Switching—On the French Chamber—Count Dana Sent Over the Sea.

LONDON, June 14.—In consequence of the refusal of a section of the Parnellites last night to listen to the advice of Chairman, who suggested that only two weighters should be discussed, little progress was made with the Crimes bill, the whole evening being occupied discussing various items of the bill. Tonight a number of amendments were proposed and rejected, the Ministerialists sending each to the rather humiliating the Liberal leaders refraining from assisting in each of the attempts of the rules of debate with in the name of the worst proceedings of the bill will merely demonstrate what obstruction is finally applied Friday night.

The details of the Crimes bill were discussed in the Commons this evening. Dr. Tanner, Parnellite, moved to omit the words making the Lord Lieutenant to proceed with prosecutions according with the consent of the Attorney-General, on the ground that the Lord Lieutenant was the proper person to decide. This motion, in fact, was a direct censure upon the Government.

Mr. William Vernon Harcourt condemned the suggestions of the person which, he said, might have the effect to put such responsible duties in the hands of partisan magistrates. In the course of further remarks he made an attack upon the Lord Chancellor, who, he said, was the Lord Lieutenant's adviser, but who seemed to have become wrong to the Irish people.

Sir John Gorst, Conservative, declared that the Lord Chancellor was one of the most impartial men in the Irish service. He always spoke in the interests of justice.

Mr. Healy, Parnellite, moved to report progress, on the ground that the Lord Chancellor was not present. The Lord Lieutenant could do nothing under the circumstances without the sanction of Parliament. [Laughter.]

Mr. Healy, continuing, said the Lord Lieutenant was the mere creature of the Lord Chancellor, who was the real Viceroy of Ireland. The Lord Chancellor was the most unpopular man in Ireland. [Laughter.] He was the author of the worst measures that had been introduced into the House of Commons.

Sir William Vernon Harcourt, Liberal, declared that the Lord Chancellor was one of the most popular men in Ireland. He was the author of the best measures that had been introduced into the House of Commons.

Mr. Healy, continuing, said the Lord Chancellor

A ONE-SIDED GAME WITH THE INDIANAPOLIS CONTRACTORS.

Indianapolis Young Fellow Doesn't Have So Good Advantages Outside, New York, and Boston Who Come Out Second to Cincinnati—The Other Fellow—The Grand Match at Grand Crossing—The Jubilee Cadet Game.

[If in the general depression the Indianapolis club proved to be such a disappointment as a baseball team, it has made up for it in the enthusiasm with which the people have taken to the game. Yesterday's contest with the Cincinnati Reds was the fifth game played in this city, and the Hoosiers have not yet succeeded in winning a single game. Their defeat yesterday was the most disastrous of the series, and the Reds, who have been playing a very fine game, had no difficulty in piling up a score which would have been enough to win any game. Cincinnati and Fleet have the best battery, Fleet's delivery being very effective. The victory was hailed by the greatest joy, one of each of the "grandest" order, and nothing would have been left undone to make the occasion a most memorable one. The score is as follows:]

Reds

[The Reds, it will be seen, had no difficulty in batting Fisler's delivery, and in the eighth inning Fleet's base hit, Leonard's two-bagger, Sensenberger's single, Allison's fly to Cuthbert, Gleason's single, Cuthbert's single, Cleveland's single, Fisler's single, and Fleet's single, which was a three-baser, netted the Reds seven runs. The Indianapolis boys were unable to do anything with Fleet's delivery, and their batting was very weak. Fisler's pitching was very effective, and the Reds had no difficulty in batting him. The fielding of the Reds was very fine, and the Indianapolis boys were unable to get a man to second base. The Reds batted in their regular order, and the Indianapolis boys in the following order:]
